Market Review

Global equity markets rallied in June, in anticipation of major U.S. trade deals and potential Federal Reserve interest rate cuts later in the year. Bloomberg's equal-weight "Magnificent Seven" index rose +6.1% in June, supporting the S&P 500 (+5.1%) and the outperformance of MSCI ACWI Growth (+5.1%) vis-à-vis MSCI ACWI Value (+3.9%). Outside the U.S., the MSCI Emerging Markets Index (+6.1%) outperformed the MSCI EAFE (+2.2%). As an indicator of prevailing sentiment, Goldman Sachs' "Bitcoin Sensitive", "Memes" and "Non-Profitable Tech" baskets rose +78%, +44% and +27%, respectively, in Q2.

Fund Review

In June, the fund returned +2.7% vs. +3.3% for the index. In Q2, the fund returned +4.1% vs. +7.0% for the Index. Year-to-date, the fund is now up +8.5%, compared to +14.2% for the Index. At the stock level, the top attribution relative contributors in June were Oracle (+1.02%), Airbus (+0.24%), Samsung Electronics (+0.23%), not owning Tesla (+0.16%) and Brookfield Corporation (+0.14%). The largest relative detractors were not owning Nvidia (-0.51%), Heineken Holding (-0.36%), Haleon (-0.36%), Franco Nevada Corp (-0.32%) and CME Group (-0.29%). At the sector level, the leading attribution contributors in June were stock selection in Information Technology (+0.40%), higher allocation to Consumer Discretionary (+0.14%), and higher allocation to Consumer Staples (+0.13%). The leading laggards were stock selection in Financials (-0.72%), lower allocation to Information Technology (-0.41%), stock selection in Materials (-0.28%), and higher allocation to Health Care (-0.28%). On a regional basis, the fund underperformance vs. the index in June was led by stock selection in North America (-1.24%) and Europe (-0.48%), slightly offset by stock selection in Asia Pacific excluding Japan (+0.16%). The largest portfolio new buys in Q2 included Franco-Nevada, Haleon and Adobe, while sales included Charles Schwab and Donaldson. In the context of broad market concerns over both the US and global growth outlook, we remain confident in the fundamental prospects of our portfolio businesses. Weighted-average 2024 EPS growth for our holdings was +12% vs. +8% for the MSCI ACWI Index.

Outlook

Various risks call the global economic outlook and broad equity valuations – particularly in the US, which remain high in a historical context – into question. These include ongoing trade policy uncertainty and the questionable return on investment for elevated GenAI-related capex spend among mega-cap companies with high US and Growth index weightings. We seek to mitigate these risks by selecting companies across regions with top quartile low earnings volatility, conservative balance sheets and high favorability to historical valuation ranges.
