Important information

As indicated in the “Fund facts” section, a preexisting strategy with a proven track record has been implemented within this Fund since its inception. Where historical information on the Fund cannot be provided, it is, in the Management Company’s opinion, relevant to provide the investors with information on the strategy. In such case, this will be appropriately specified in this marketing document. Unless otherwise specified, data contained in this document are provided as at 2025.06.30.

Investment objective

The objective of this Sub-fund is to provide its investors with long-term capital appreciation by implementing a UCITS compliant strategy that seeks to approximate the returns that alternative funds using “Managed Futures style” would typically achieve, which comprises strategies that aim at generating returns by taking long and short positions across asset classes (equities indices, government bonds or rates, currencies and/or commodities via eligible instruments) and by using futures and forward contracts to achieve their investment objectives. There is generally low to no exposure to single companies. These alternative funds generally use quantitative processes to identify long or short opportunities in the various asset classes they analyse. Despite being directional by nature, these strategies have a low correlation to major risk factors over the medium to long term. For the avoidance of doubt, the Sub-Manager will not invest in such alternative funds. The Fund is actively managed not in reference to a benchmark.

Market Review

Global markets exhibited resilience amid ongoing geopolitical tensions and policy uncertainties. Oil prices spiked on Middle East tensions, then reversed as OPEC signaled production increases and geopolitical fears eased. US equities reached record highs, buoyed by strong earnings and easing trade tensions between the U.S. and China. Emerging markets outperformed, aided by a weaker U.S. dollar and favorable trade developments. Fixed income markets also saw gains, reflecting investor confidence despite fiscal policy debates surrounding the One Big Beautiful Bill.

Fund Review

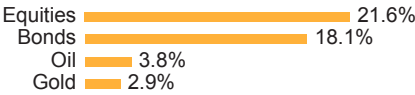

Performance was positive across asset classes in June. In commodities, gains in gold and crude oil were the primary contributors to returns. Positioning in currencies was dynamic, a short Euro position at the start of the month flipped to a long mid-month, helping to drive gains while a long Japanese yen position, which shifted to a short over the course of the month, detracted. Equities added to returns, led by strength in emerging markets and developed international markets. A short position in U.S. equities at the start of the month rotated into a long, further added to gains. Within rates, a curve steepener helped amid a modestly falling yield environment. Importantly, the portfolio continues to outperform the target, extending its year-to-date lead to over 700 bps.

Outlook

Investor confidence improved in June, but US policy remains a question mark and can be a continued source of market volatility. Economic data has been resilient to-date but forecasters predict tariff effects will start to take hold in late Q3.
